At the outset of 1987, in the aftermath of the public realization of the Iran-Contra Affair, Lt. Col. Oliver North acknowledged that he was a key figure in the affair. Also, this year, the United States Senate rejected the nominations by President Reagan of Robert Bork and Douglas Ginsburg to the Supreme Court.

In the worst blow to the stock market since it crashed in 1929, the Dow Jones Industrial average fell 508 points on Black Monday and paper currency lost 500 billion dollars in value.

On a more comforting note, Americans came together in hundreds of thousands of living rooms across the country to witness the rescue of 18-month old Jessica McClure from a well in Texas.

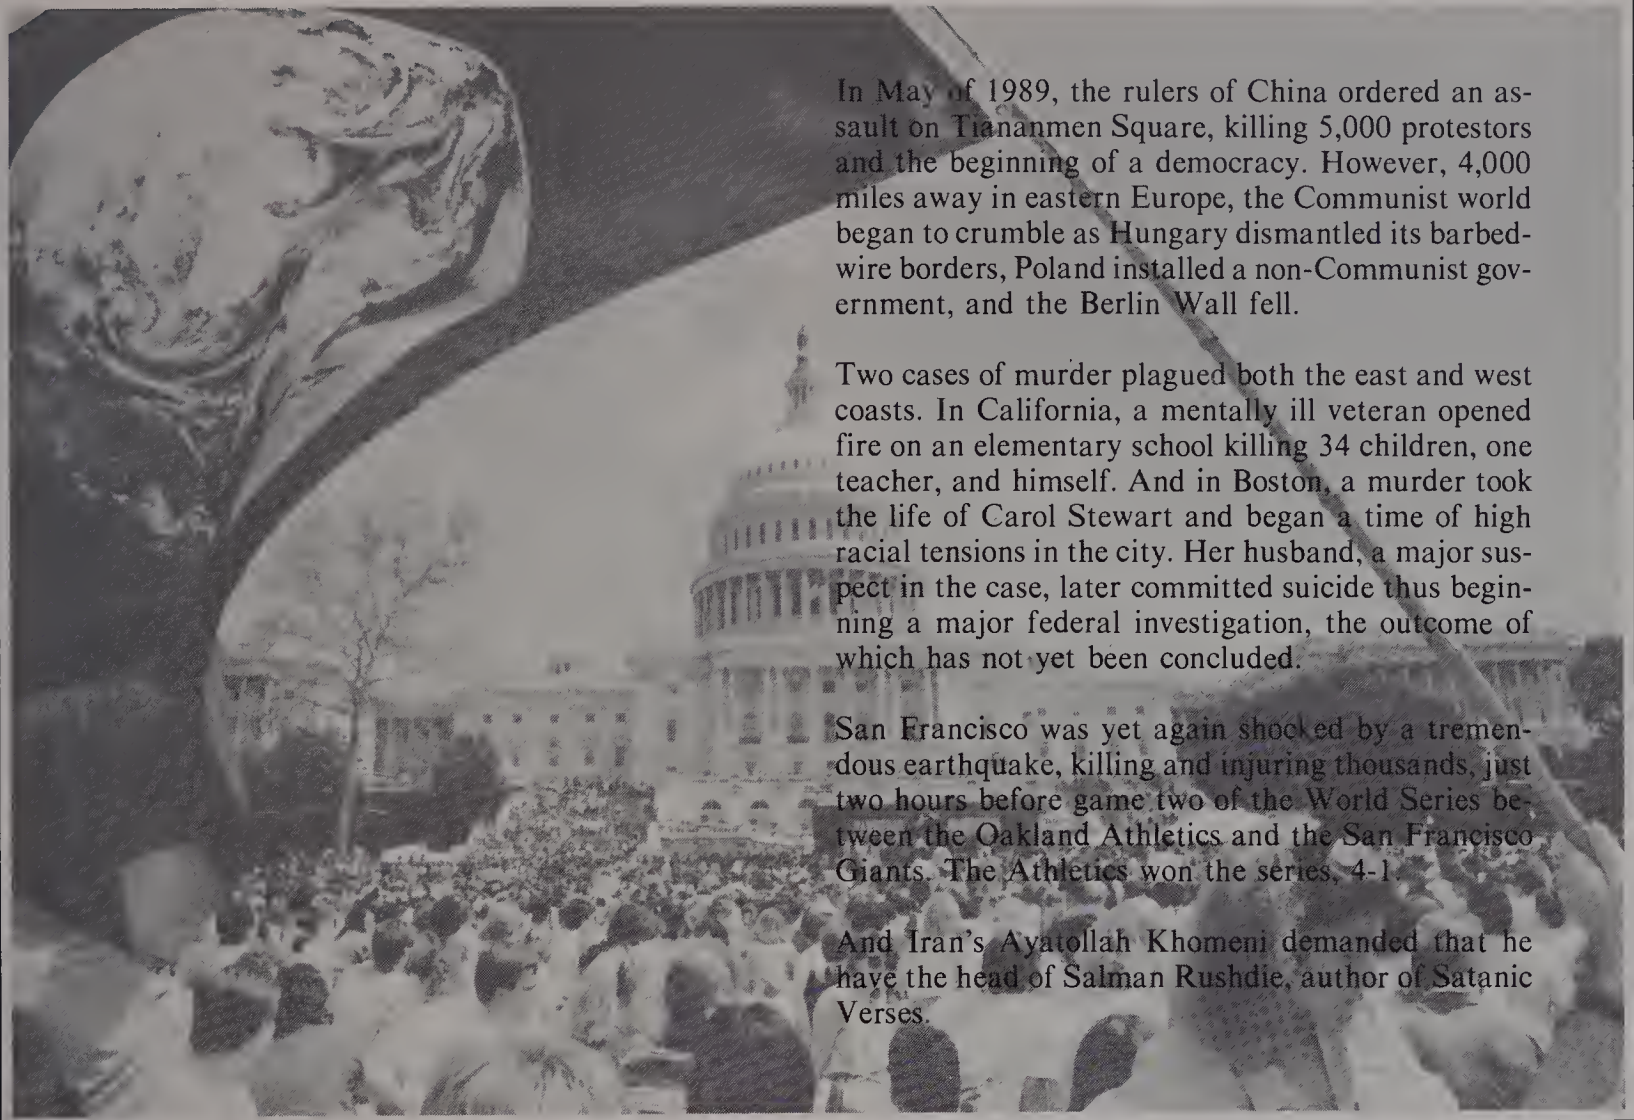

In 1988, the biggest international headline was the Soviet Union's withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan after eight years of occupation. The United States cruiser Vincennes shot down an Iranian passenger plane over the Persian Gulf. The captain later stated that the plane was mistaken for an Iranian air force jet.

The 1988 Summer Olympic games were full of controversy, as eight medal-winning competitors tested positive to the use of steroids. Ben Johnson, the former world-record-holder and gold medalist in the 100 meter dash, was among these. Those that attained the status of hero in the games included Florence Griffith-Joyner, Janet Evans, and Greg Louganis, who came back from a severe head injury to capture his second pair of gold medals.

The land took a terrible blow as Hurricane Hugo on the east coast, and fires in Yellowstone National Park, destroyed lands and lives in one of the most devastating years in history for natural disasters.

In the race for the White House, Vice-President George Bush and Senator James D. Quayle defeated Governor Michael Dukakis and Senator Lloyd Bentsen by an eight percent margin in the popular vote.

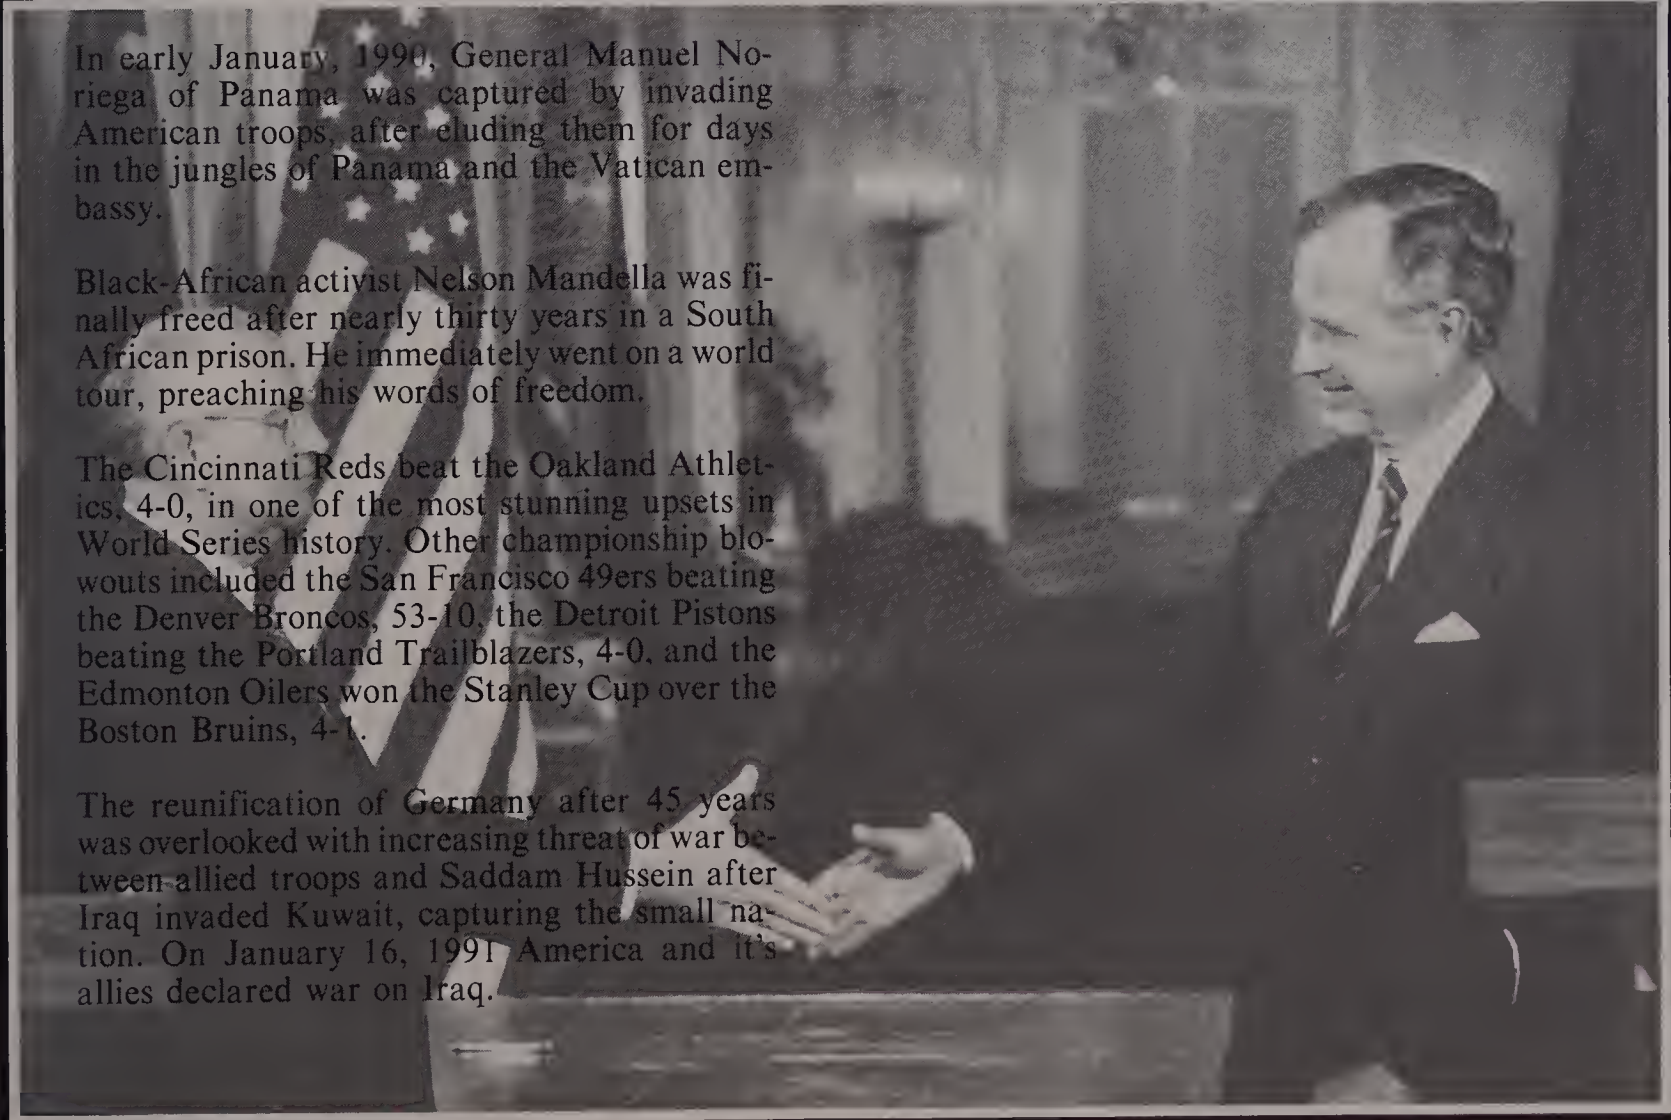

In May of 1989, the rulers of China ordered an assault on Tiananmen Square, killing 5,000 protestors and the beginning of a democracy. However, 4,000 miles away in eastern Europe, the Communist world began to crumble as Hungary dismantled its barbed-wire borders, Poland installed a non-Communist government, and the Berlin Wall fell.

Two cases of murder plagued both the east and west coasts. In California, a mentally ill veteran opened fire on an elementary school killing 34 children, one teacher, and himself. And in Boston, a murder took the life of Carol Stewart and began a time of high racial tensions in the city. Her husband, a major suspect in the case, later committed suicide thus beginning a major federal investigation, the outcome of which has not yet been concluded.

San Francisco was yet again shocked by a tremendous earthquake, killing and injuring thousands, just two hours before game two of the World Series between the Oakland Athletics and the San Francisco Giants. The Athletics won the series, 4-1.

And Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini demanded that he have the head of Salman Rushdie, author of Satanic Verses.

In early January, 1990, General Manuel Noriega of Panama was captured by invading American troops, after eluding them for days in the jungles of Panama and the Vatican embassy.

Black-African activist Nelson Mandella was finally freed after nearly thirty years in a South African prison. He immediately went on a world tour, preaching his words of freedom.

The Cincinnati Reds beat the Oakland Athletics, 4-0, in one of the most stunning upsets in World Series history. Other championship blowouts included the San Francisco 49ers beating the Denver Broncos, 53-10, the Detroit Pistons beating the Portland Trailblazers, 4-0, and the Edmonton Oilers won the Stanley Cup over the Boston Bruins, 4-1.

The reunification of Germany after 45 years was overlooked with increasing threat of war between allied troops and Saddam Hussein after Iraq invaded Kuwait, capturing the small nation. On January 16, 1991 America and its allies declared war on Iraq.

Freshman Year

We entered Harwich High as a diverse and energetic group. Kristin Roderick was elected President of our class with Ryan Dobbins as V.P., Lynne Doherty as Treasurer, and Jessica Diamond as secretary. Our first Variety Show was a huge success. The cheerleaders took third place in the local competition. The newly formed group, Interact, went to England. During the Semi-Formal, Kristin R. was voted Lady, and Michael Gori was Lord. The musical "Oliver" was performed by the Drama Club.

Sophomore Year

Kristin was again voted Pres. with Lynne as her V.P., Lisa Waite as the Secretary, and Cyd as the Treasurer. We had our second annual variety show. It was so successful, we decided to have two a year instead. Boy's basketball beat top ranked Cathedral by 1 to move to the State Quarter Finals. The Drama club performed the musical "Guys and Dolls." Our class sponsored the first and last Pickelball tournament. Interact went to France. At the Semi-Formal Danielle LoCicero was voted Dutchess, and Cyd was voted as Duke. We also had our last Field Day, thanks to the class of '90.

Junior Year

Kristin returned as Pres., Lynne was V.P., Sue B. was Tres., and Lisa was Sec. Boys soccer won the Cape and Islands league. We had our 4th and 5th Variety Show, with the help of the Rock. Interact's yearly trip took them to see the newly fallen Wall. Boys B-Ball, BOSTON GARDEN, 'nuff said. The first Foreign Language Fair was held. At the now-annual Semi-Formal, Kristin got Princess, and Cyd was Prince. The Junior Awards were held with many of our classmates being honored. "Oklahoma" was the choice for the year's musical. Toward the year's end, the Junior Prom was held at Chatham Bars Inn. After, there was a small get together.

Senior Year

Our final year started off with our Cranberry Harvest Festival raffle. Another money making Variety Show was held. The new library and science labs were finally built. A Christmas Semi-Formal was held. The strong Drama Club performed the classic "The Sound of Music". In our attempts to make more money, our class held a fashion show for the spring formal wear. A cracker-jack group of kids published our yearbook. As the second half of our year began our minds and hearts were with our friends and past school mates in the Persian Gulf. We would just like to remind them that "We will succeed." Good Bye Harwich High.

We loved right down to our last Goodbye.*
